Chartis' Private Client Group increases depth of underwriting team

August 1, 2011

Chartis Insurance UK Limited today announced two recent appointments to its core team based in London. Barry Taylor joins from Chubb and John Montgomery arrives from Brit.

"Our high net worth operation in the UK is well established, but as we reorganize to better meet the needs of the market we are putting great emphasis on getting the right people in place, so I am delighted to welcome Barry and John to the team," said Guy Huntley, Vice President, UK Private Client Group. "They are both high-quality, multi-skilled underwriters with the breadth of experience to address our clients' whole portfolio of risks, not just individual lines.

"These appointments are the latest step in our ongoing investment to ensure that we are providing the right products for our clients and that we can respond to claims with a service that is second to none in terms of speed, efficiency and sensitivity."
