Higher Education

Serving the Higher Education Industry's Needs

Higher Education institutions face a unique set of exposures and require an experienced carrier to help address their risks. With more than 30 years as one of the largest providers of Excess Workers' Compensation and Employers' Liability in the United States, the Excess Workers' Compensation division recognizes these challenges and has developed a comprehensive loss control service program that combines the extensive knowledge and resources of our internal staff with the expertise of a national consulting group specializing in security, crisis management and emergency planning. Our strategic relationship ensures that we can deliver industry-specific loss control services to assist clients in successfully managing campus and workplace safety, regulatory compliance and related risks.

Higher Education Industry-Specific Resources

The Excess Workers' Compensation Global Loss Prevention staff is experienced in managing traditional risks for colleges and universities. Historically, we have assisted these institutions with employee safety training, including physical & chemical hazards, life safety, health issues and more. Recent events across several college campuses highlight the need for a progressive, all-encompassing loss control plan that addresses more than traditional risks. Areas that college leadership must address in their planning and organization include:

- Campus Security Organization & Structure
- Program Documentation & Resources
- Emergency Planning & Preparation
- Communication & Response Systems
- Staff Training/Awareness
- Physical & Technological Infrastructure
- Internal Resources Capabilities
- External Resources & Response

Our partnership with security-industry specialists, experienced in campus security and emergency planning, allow us to introduce our clients to the services of a team of professionals that can offer guidance on security and emergency preparedness/planning programs. We offer security assessment options that provide an excellent opportunity to initiate or benchmark your institution's emergency and crisis planning.
